Louisiana's Stage Moves Fast After Warrant Is Issued For President Of University; Shortage Cited

BATON ROUGE, La., June 27—Richard Webster Leche faded into the twilight of his meteoric political career today as Earl K. Long took up Louisiana's gubernatorial reins in a desperate move to save the incredible empire built by the late Huey P. Long.

After a day of bickering and lengthy conferences, Leche resigned by proclamation last night and ten minutes later Earl, brother of Huey, was administered the oath of office by Supreme Court Justice John R. Land, Sr.

Long's assumption of power in no way lessened the gravity of investigation into charges of W.P.A. corruption and financial irregularities at Louisiana State university. His taking the oath, however, did go a long way in quelling an uprising that threatened to split the machine wide apart.

Even at the moment Long was taking the oath of office, Baton Rouge city police were filing charges against J. Emory Adams, former L. S. U. bookshop manager and confidant of Dr. James Monroe Smith, missing former head of the university. He was charged simply with being a material witness and released under $5,000 bond.

Embezzlement Charged

At that time, too, a formal affidavit charging Dr. Smith with embezzlement of $100,000 of university funds was accepted by Dewey Sanchez, East Baton Rouge district attorney.

No one would be quoted, but all observers were agreed that a struggle of titanic proportions had been waged the last few days between Leche on the one side, and Long, backed by Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, on the other.

One note of rebellion, however, was struck by A. P. Tugwell, state treasurer and announced candidate for governor on an independent platform. He ridiculed the probe at L. S. U. and suggested the "investigation include a public accounting of the funds derived from monthly deductions from salaries of state employees." Discussing the change in governors, he said:

GUARDS PLACED ABOUT EXHIBIT AT GOTHAM FAIR

NEW YORK, June 27—As a result of several telephoned bombing threats, a 24-hour police guard was on watch today over the square-rigger merchantman Yankee which is part of the New England exhibit at the World's Fair.

The picturesque merchantman was involved in a jurisdictional union squabble, both Dry-Land and Nautical Riggers' unions claiming jurisdiction for hoisting the rigging. A strike was called before the top-gallant and royal yards could be hoisted.

RHODESIANS QUIT FAIR, PROTESTING NUDE SHOWS

NEW YORK, June 27—The flag, name and crest of Southern Rhodesia were missing today from its Victoria Falls exhibit at the World's Fair, their removal peremptorily ordered by cable by the Southern Rhodesia government as a protest against the nude girl shows to which the fair management allotted adjacent locations.

Norman Yule, commissioner for Southern Rhodesia, said he considered it "unfortunate" that the Victoria Falls exhibit which attracts women and children as well as men was placed in an area which he asserted catered largely to "the lower human instincts."

BRITISH REJECT JAP DECREE

SPARROW HAWKS STAY OUT OF POLICEMEN'S RANGE

Police Chief William McCrady and Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick reported no luck, Monday evening, in their hunt for sparrow hawks believed responsible for numerous bird killings in the vicinity of Court and Mound streets.

McCrady said the hawks were seen but it was impossible to get close enough for a shot. One shot was fired but the hawk was out of range.

The officers expect to continue their hunt for the birds. Numerous dead birds have been found in the vicinity in recent weeks. The hawks kill the birds by tearing off the heads.

Her attorney, Ben Dewey of Clyde, entered the plea before Justice E. H. Buchman at a proceeding that lasted less than three minutes.

Dewey waived preliminary hearing and reading of the affidavit.

SILVER SPURTS, MARKET SLIDES IN DAY'S TRADE

NEW YORK, June 27—The stock market lost further ground today, after firming momentarily at the opening. Leaders generally limited declines to fractions, but special issues lost one to two points.

There was little response to the surprising Washington developments, which saw the senate turn down continuance of the President's power to devalue the dollar, while setting a price of 77.57 cents an ounce on domestic silver purchases.

The silver move brought a spurt in Sunshine Mining which was up well over a point.

Chrysler was up 1 1/4 at the opening, but later receded under last night's closing. Fractional gains in Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric and Union Carbide also were converted into losses.

Philip Morris, McIntyre Mines, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum each slipped more than a point. Eastman Kodak dropped two points.

The list met some support around noon, but was unable to show much of a recovery from morning lows.

Superintendent Marguerite Reiley announced receipt of requests for pictures and fingerprints of the fugitives from Milwaukee and St. Paul police. At the same time she said a girl held in Richmond, Ind., who resembled Mrs. West, had been released.

New Deal Backs Down In Fight To Gain Great Executive Power

OPEN REVOLT FEARED

Four Provisions Cited As Fundamental Under Revised Measure

WASHINGTON, June 27—House administration leaders today abandoned efforts to vote wide discretionary power for the President in the Bloom neutrality bill, and decided instead to drastically revise the measure in a move to stem a party revolt.

The prestige of the administration, it was decided, will be staked on repeal of the mandatory arms embargo provisions of the Bloom bill.

House debate on the bill, framed after conferences between Acting Chairman Bloom of the foreign affairs committee, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, opened today.

The proposed legislation would provide:

1. Repeal of provisions of present law forbidding American firms from selling munitions to warring nations.

2. Prohibit American citizens from travelling on vessels of belligerent nations, except at own risk.

3. Prohibit flotation of loans, including short-term loans, by foreign governments buying munitions.

4. Provide for a cash-and-carry system of sale of munitions. Exact form undecided early today.

Major Breaks Feared

Decision to revise the Bloom bill was reached by Democratic leaders after a canvass disclosed widespread defection in party ranks, both over lifting of the arms embargo and granting wide discretion to the President.

Among the provisions dropped are: giving President right to define combat areas, giving President right to discretion in banning loans to foreign nations and right to discretion in restricting travel on belligerent nation ships.

Rep. Bolland, Pennsylvania, Democratic whip, advised the steering committee that the original bill could be driven to passage but predicted it would be much easier to pass the revised bill.

Since the heart of the bill—repeal of the mandatory arms embargo provision—was left in the revised bill, one of the biggest legislative battles in years in the house was certain.

F. D. ENDS REST, STUDIES DEFEAT IN SENATE VOTE

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 27—President Roosevelt continued his "long weekend" of Hyde Park seclusion today, contemplating meanwhile the senate's latest rebuff to his policies in the matter of cancelling further authority to devalue the dollar.

Overnight the chief executive talked on the "phone to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. It was understood they agreed that in view of the decisiveness of the vote there was little New Deal leaders could do about the gold content of the dollar—unless the President should cut nine more cents out of it before midnight June 30. The latter course was not believed in contemplation.

MOWERY'S WHEAT YIELDS 19.5 BUSHELS AN ACRE

James Mowery, Circleville township farmer, believed to be the first farmer near Circleville to complete combining his wheat crop, reported that a field of 23 acres averaged 19 1/2 bushels to the acre. The wheat tested No. 2, weighing 59 pounds to the bushel and containing only 13 percent moisture.

Rain Tuesday prevented some farmers from combining and cutting wheat.

BUCKNER TAKES STAND TO TELL OF BOND SALES

NEW YORK, June 27—William P. Buckner, Jr., playboy-broker and one of five men charged with engineering a million dollar fraud in Philippine railroad bonds, was to take the stand in federal court again today and explain what happened during his stay in Hollywood when he spent most of his time at "Miss Young's house."

Testimony already offered has identified "Miss Young" as Screen Actress Loretta Young with whom the debonair Buckner, scion of a wealthy insurance family, has been linked romantically.

Defense counsel planned to have Buckner, a friend of screen luminaries, tell of a visit to the Philippine islands in an attempt to get the island legislature to redeem its railway bonds, and also a journey to London, all financed by bondholders according to the government.

Co-defendants with the youthful Buckner who faces a possible 37 years in prison are Felipe Buencamino, ranking Philippine politician and a member of the island legislature; Charles W. Turner, New York broker; John S. Hyde, film producer, and William Gillispie, Wall Street operator.

The Hollywood visit by Buckner, Turner and Hyde was to sell bonds to several screen stars including Herbert Marshall, Frank Morgan and Bing Crosby, the government charged. However, both Marshall and Morgan have testified they refused to "bite."

BRITAIN AGREEABLE TO FINAL SOVIET DEMANDS

LONDON, June 27—Because of the admitted possibility of "new German aggression," Great Britain today bowed to Russia's demands and agreed to name Finland, Estonia, and Latvia in direct guarantees of independence.

Indignation against Japan's action in Tientsin and other ports of China ran high in official quarters here, yet in delivering the last full measure of capitulation to the Soviet Union, Great Britain showed that her main immediate concern is the Reich, and not the oriental end of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis.

TOKYO, June 27—Acting on information that Soviet forces planned a gigantic air raid on the province of Manchukuo, a fleet of Japanese war craft shot down 98 out of an attacking army of 200 Russian airplanes, it was stated in a Japanese war office communique today.

Afterward, according to official accounts, Japanese planes pursued the fleeing Soviet fleet to its base and there destroyed 30 more planes.

The first hint of a serious conflict was contained in a dispatch yesterday, which disclosed that higher ranking Japanese naval officers had been hurriedly summoned to duty at the Kamchatka naval base.

SUTTON AWAITES DIETRICH'S MOVE TO FIGHT OUSTER

COLUMBUS, June 27—His position abolished as of July 15, Dr. David H. Sutton, state director of school finances, today indicated he would not take any action unless "someone else is named to the place."

The $4,000 a year post was abolished late yesterday by State Education Director E. N. Dietrich, after Sutton refused to resign.

Dietrich accused Sutton of releasing news stories without the director's approval. One of the stories was a criticism of the administration's methods of handling the school foundation program.

Dietrich said Sutton would not be replaced and that his job would be carried on by other persons now employed in the department.

THREE AUTOISTS FACING CHARGES IN CITY COURT

Three arrests of motorists were reported Tuesday by the police and sheriff's departments.

Walter F. Dum, 50, of 228 Perry street, Lancaster, was arrested by the sheriff's department to face a charge of driving when intoxicated. Officers reported the car driven by Dum failed to make the turn into the bridge on the Kingston pike near the Montelius farm about 4 p. m. Monday and struck the guard rail. Officers said Dum would probably have a hearing Tuesday afternoon.

George W. Curry, 40, of 86 Jones avenue, Columbus, was in the city jail awaiting a hearing Tuesday evening on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Police reported he was arrested at 1:50 a. m. Tuesday.

Ralph R. McCracken, 19, of 215 E. Mulberry street, Lancaster, posted $20 bond in police court to report for a hearing at 8 p. m. Tuesday on a charge of reckless operation of an auto. Police said he was arrested at 10:55 p. m.

All Seaports Taken Over By Nipponese; Supplies Come From Interior

SHANGHAI, June 27—British sources in Shanghai today confirmed that Anglo-Japanese negotiations for settlement of the Tientsin incident have begun.

HONG KONG, June 27—Great Britain today speedily rejected a Japanese request that British and American shipping and nationals be evacuated from the ports of Foochow and Wenchow, latest objective of Japan's drive in China, by noon Thursday.

Any attempts to enter Foochow and Wenchow after that time might be dangerous, the Japanese explained, and the Japanese navy will not assume responsibility for any consequence.

Almost as soon as it was received, British naval and merchant marine authorities in Shanghai turned down the Japanese demand.

Japanese bluejackets and soldiers, quickly following up the capture of Swatow, landed at Foochow early today, it was reported here.

Another report said the Japanese had taken Wenchow, bringing close to completion the redoubled offensive by Japan to choke off avenues through which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has been receiving military supplies from abroad.

U. S. To Join Britain

While there were no American warships at either Foochow and Wenchow, and no United States merchant ships were reported at either of the towns, the United States was expected to join Britain in the latter's speedy rejection of Japan's "suggestion" that foreigners be evacuated.

In turning down the Japanese request, British authorities at Shanghai informed Japanese naval commanders that, since Foochow and Wenchow were treaty ports, Britons had every right to use them without restriction.

Japan, said British representatives, would be held responsible for any damage to lives and property resulting from military and naval operations in the two cities.

(Wenchow lies three hundred miles south of Shanghai and Foochow two hundred miles more down the coast. Wenchow has a population of 631,000; Foochow, 323,000. Their capture by the Japanese leaves China with no direct coastal outlet to gain supplies, but Chiang Kai-Shek still can receive fighting materials through French Indo-China and his highway into Burma.)

Mrs. Farrell's husband is in Ohio penitentiary after being sentenced for a statutory offense. Dr. Tippie, vacationing in Bell Plain, Ia., telephoned Cleveland police that he would return home today.

The Pittsburgh woman who got the child paid $25 delivery expenses and intended to pay $25 more, according to Detective Peter Merylo. She acted in good faith, Police Prosecutor Gerard Pilliod said.

Mrs. Farrell told Merylo she received $15, and had been instructed to get out of Cleveland. She has four other children, all in welfare institutions.

While there were no American warships at either Foochow and Wenchow, and no United States merchant ships were reported at either of the towns, the United States was expected to join Britain in the latter's speedy rejection of Japan's "suggestion" that foreigners be evacuated.

In turning down the Japanese request, British authorities at Shanghai informed Japanese naval commanders that, since Foochow and Wenchow were treaty ports, Britons had every right to use them without restriction.

Japan, said British representatives, would be held responsible for any damage to lives and property resulting from military and naval operations in the two cities.

(Wenchow lies three hundred miles south of Shanghai and Foochow two hundred miles more down the coast. Wenchow has a population of 631,000; Foochow, 323,000. Their capture by the Japanese leaves China with no direct coastal outlet to gain supplies, but Chiang Kai-Shek still can receive fighting materials through French Indo-China and his highway into Burma.)

WEEVIL THREAT NOTED

Parks Reports Pickaway
Hessian Fly Menace
In Low Class

Farmers planning to combine their wheat should not combine too early, according to C. E. Blakeslee, acting county agricultural agent. This is the recommendation of the Ohio State university school of agriculture.

Many farmers get over-anxious and combine before the wheat is fully mature and thus run the danger of wheat heating in storage or shrinking when it loses its excess moisture, Blakeslee said.

Grain Weevil Feared

A further warning comes from T. H. Parks, extension entomologist at Ohio State university, that wheat when stored damp is likely to become infested by the grain weevil. Mr. Parks suggests that the wheat be dried when stored and be stored in a "clean granary."

To be sure of a clean granary a thorough cleaning out with a broom is essential. Ordinary hydrated lime may then be thrown into the cracks and crevices. This drives the weevils out as they do not like to be around a residue of lime. Neither will it be injurious to the wheat in any way.

If wheat does become infested with weevil in spite of precautions nothing is more effective than carbon bisulfide used before cold weather sets in.

Mr. Parks announced that Pickaway county is one of the counties showing low infestation of Hessian fly in wheat. The average percentage infestation for this year shows only 2.7 percent of the straw infested as compared with 9.8 percent last year.

According to Mr. Parks this is due to the universal cooperation in date of seeding wheat in the county. This year the fly free date will be Oct. 1. Mr. Parks further comments that continued freedom from Hessian fly infestation will depend on continued freedom from early sowed wheat.

The survey of infestation in the county was taken last Thursday. According to Mr. Parks the survey showed that 3.2 percent of the wheat straw was infested with joint worm. He further stated that the joint worm infestation may be on the upward trend, but this is not feared nearly as much as the Hessian fly.

draw her shipping and nationalities from Wenchow and Fochow parallels the rejection by Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, of a Japanese request that American naval units get out of Swatow.

Instead of sending the United States destroyer Pillsbury sailing orders, Admiral Yarnell ordered the U. S. destroyer Pope to join the Pillsbury at Swatow.

H. M. S. Duchess is at Sharp Peak island, 30 miles below Fochow, and there she intends to remain, according to British naval advisers here. Latest information places nine American women and five American men at the American mission on Sharp Peak island.

At Swatow, however, the Japanese were reported gaining victories over the British as well as the Chinese. Japanese telegraphs said three British steamers, one of which entered Swatow harbor under naval escort, were forced to leave the newly-captured South China harbor, without disembarking passengers or discharging cargo.

Japanese military spokesman at Swatow said these restrictions were essential because of "fresh army operations in the Swatow district to halt the supply of war materials to Chiang Kai-Shek."

crats, I am encouraged, and the bill may be defeated," said Rep. Tinkham (R) Massachusetts, foe of the measure.

"They will have a hard time with it," said Rep. Ludlow (D) Indiana.

The administration was staging a tremendous drive for passage of the Bloom bill. Secretary of State Hull, it was reported, was making personal appeals to Democrats to back the foreign policy of the administration.

Objectives Argued

While foes of the measure charged that it is an instrument to permit President Roosevelt to make a virtual alliance with Great Britain and France, which would lead to war, the administration leaders contended that passage would cause Germany and Italy to hesitate to start a war.

Despite the formal embezzlement charges, state police moved into the second day without any trace of Dr. Smith, now described as a man who reputedly used the sale of unauthorized university bonds to aid him in his fight to recover staggering stock market losses.

Rumors Fill State

Rumors concerning the present whereabouts of Dr. Smith have been as incredible as the saga itself. One wild rumor had him surrendering at the executive mansion; another had him arrested by state police and still another had him being secreted at the country home of former Governor Leche.

According to officials, however, none of the reports were true and the former head of L. S. U. was reported officially as "still missing."

Leche's resignation climaxed a hectic day in which it was predicted that he would step down, denied and finally predicted again. In his proclamation, Leche formally declared that he had resigned and declared the office of governor vacant. He was Louisiana's 47th governor.

COUNTY TO OKEH CITY'S PLAN TO PROVIDE RELIEF

Contract, Expected To Be Acted On Monday, Held Up By Trial

MATCHING BEGINS JULY 1

Same Administration As in Operation Now Goes On; Money To Be Needed

A contract between the city and county for the county relief department to continue to handle city relief cases after July 1 will be prepared this week.

The commissioners received a communication from council, Monday, explaining that the city wishes to have its relief cases handled through the county department as in the past.

No contract could be prepared Monday as legal advisers for both groups were busy in a trial in Common Pleas court. Legal adviser for the commissioners is George E. Gerhardt, and for the city Solicitor Carl C. Leist.

Ralph May, president of the board of commissioners, said a special meeting of the board may be called this week to consider the contract before July 1 or the contract may be taken to each commissioner for his consideration before July 1.

Under new regulations the city was given its choice of setting up its own relief department or entering into a contract with the county for the care of its cases. About 50 percent of the relief administered through the county department is for city cases.

The new regulations provide also that the city pay 50 percent of the cost of relief cases. The other half would be paid by the state. It is estimated the city will need from $3,000 to $4,000 for the remainder of the year for relief purposes.

To date the council has reached no decision on how the funds will be raised.

Commissioners discussed the appointment of a new superintendent for the County Home to succeed the late H. E. Mowery, but reached no decision. Mr. May believed the appointment would be made at the next meeting. "I believe we will get some place next Monday," he said. "We are getting a little closer on the appointment."

JURORS CALLED TO HEAR CHARGE AGAINST CASE

HILLSBORO, June 27 — Frank Case, 49-year-old tenant farmer, was in custody today awaiting action of a special Highland county grand jury called for Thursday to consider a double slaying in which he is being held.

According to Sheriff Howard Dunseith, Case reportedly confessed he shot and killed Mrs. Jane Richmond, his 45-year-old employer, and Dan Setty, 73, his father-in-law.

Authorities asserted the farm hand admitted firing five shots into the woman, mother of six children, following an altercation over sale of horses.

The accused man was quoted as saying he was sorry for Mrs. Richmond and the children but declared "I should have shot him (Setty) 10 years ago."

A posse of more than 100 captured Case along the Ohio river near Portsmouth yesterday following an all-night search.

ment payments has cost him the job as head of the new consolidated Federal Security Agency. Also it may cause him a lot of trouble even to get reappointed as chairman of the Social Security Board. His term expires in August and there is considerable opposition to him inside the Administration and on Capitol Hill.

When the Federal Security Administration was set up under the Reorganization Act, Aitmyer was the No. 1 choice to boss the agency. But so much hostility developed that he was dropped from the list of candidates. Not even that stopped the fire on him. Recently, his inner circle and congressional critics, with powerful labor support, quietly started gunning for his scalp on the Social Security Board.

The odds favor his being reappointed, but he may be subjected to some vigorous buffeting in the Senate before he is confirmed.

BRITISH WIT

One of the best stories on the British royal visit, which still is the subject of much conversation in Washington, is told by Congressman Hamilton Fish—on himself.

Ham is one who believes in the prestige and dignity of the House of Representatives, and while he was invited to the Embassy garden party, he felt grieved that most other members of Congress were not.

So Mr. Fish called up Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, and said:

"I know you'll forgive me for making this suggestion, but I think you did not realize the importance of the House of Representatives when you issued invitations to the garden party."

"Some of the outstanding legislators on Capitol Hill are members of the House. In fact, I am convinced that the next President of the United States is now sitting in the House, and probably any doubt the next Speaker is a member of the present House."

"All right," shot back Lady Lindsay, "send me the names of those three gentlemen and I'll see to it that they get invitations."

FARMERS DESERT HULL

Enemies of Secretary Hull's trade agreement program may take heart: one of his principal allies has threatened to desert him.

All through the fight to negotiate—and retain—trade agreements with foreign countries, Hull has had heavy support from the Farm Bureau Federation. This was important because enemies were accusing Hull of "selling the American farmer down the river."

Farm Bureau Federation was the one farm outfit that went to bat for the Secretary of State, thanks largely to Wallace's influence, and actively tried to sell the agreements to the U. S. farmer. But now the Farm Bureau has flatly declared it would withdraw this support if the State Department continued to sabotage the cotton export subsidy program.

The issue is a hot one because the Federation has put all its forces into the fight for the cotton subsidy, in the face of heavy mill and market opposition. If it is to be defeated partly by an agency they have fought to support, then there will be no more support from them.

If there were no farm organization supporting the trade agreements program, farmers, who resent the importation of a single Polish ham, could be persuaded to tear it to bits in 1940.

275 PHEASANTS SENT TO COUNTY FROM OHIO FARM

The Pickaway County Farmer's and Sportsman's association has received its first shipment of pheasants from the conservation department. Two hundred and seventy-five birds have arrived and been placed in the pens at the B. S. Millar farm, near South Bloomfield. The birds are four weeks old. They were received from the Newark hatchery of the department. The association hopes to raise about 1,000 to 1,200 pheasants this summer. Another shipment is expected next Saturday. Harry L. Bartholomew, secretary of the association, said some work on the pens is still to be completed. He urged sportsmen who wish to assist in the work to notify him or Roy Beatty, treasurer of the association.

ACTOR'S THREAT TO LEAP FROM TANK OUTWITTED

NEW YORK, June 27—The threat of Lawrence Bernard, 26, a Greenwich village actor now on W. P. A., to leap off a water tank on the roof of a 12 story apartment house because his love was spurned by one of its occupants earned him a place in the Bellevue hospital psychopathic ward today. Three firemen outwitted Bernard, one grabbing him when he reached for a proffered cigarette and the other two were hidden in the framework beneath the tank seizing him from behind. Margaret Barber, a pretty blonde actress and the object of Bernard's unreturned ardor, insisted she knew him only through business affiliations.

AGAIN The Highest Award in Railroad Safety TO that typical American—the RAILROAD MAN— goes the lion's share of the credit for the safety achievement of 1938—the safest year in the history of the American railroads. And to the Norfolk and Western Railway and its 20,000 employees goes the honor for leading the field. For again, the American Museum of Safety—for the second time within 12 years—has awarded this railroad the coveted Harriman Memorial Gold Medal for the outstanding safety record during 1938 among the large Class I railroads of the United States. The progress of the Norfolk and Western in accident prevention since 1924, has resulted in the actual saving of 80 employees' lives and the prevention of 10,000 employee injuries. To the traveling public, it means that this railroad last year carried more than one million passengers nearly 86,000,000 miles without a single injury or fatality in a train accident. The Norfolk and Western's unusual safety achievements didn't just happen. They are the result of years of practical planning, the expenditure of millions of dollars for improved and safer equipment, strengthened roadbed and track structure, modern signaling systems, improved tools and operating methods, better training and supervision, and intensive safety education. Above all these things, have been the efforts of the employees themselves, their belief in safety, their efficiency, and their cooperation with one another and with the management. The Norfolk and Western is proud of their record. With the proven knowledge that safety is the first rule of good railroading, the Norfolk and Western Railway and its employees, will continue to exert every effort to achieve greater safety for the protection of themselves and those whom they serve. COUNTY TO OKEH CITY'S PLAN TO PROVIDE RELIEF

Contract, Expected To Be Acted On Monday, Held Up By Trial

MATCHING BEGINS JULY 1

Same Administration As In Operation Now Goes On; Money To Be Needed

A contract between the city and county for the county relief department to continue to handle city relief cases after July 1 will be prepared this week.

The commissioners received a communication from council, Monday, explaining that the city wishes to have its relief cases handled through the county department as in the past.

No contract could be prepared Monday as legal advisers for both groups were busy in a trial in Common Pleas court. Legal adviser for the commissioners is George E. Gerhardt, and for the city Solicitor Carl C. Leist.

Ralph May, president of the board of commissioners, said a special meeting of the board may be called this week to consider the contract before July 1 or the contract may be taken to each commissioner for his consideration before July 1.

Under new regulations the city was given the choice of setting up its own relief department or entering into a contract with the county for the care of its cases. About 50 percent of the relief administered through the county department is for city cases.

The new regulations provide also that the city pay 50 percent of the cost of relief cases. The other half would be paid by the state. It is estimated the city will need from $3,000 to $4,000 for the remainder of the year for relief purposes.

To date the council has reached no decision on how the funds will be raised.

Commissioners discussed the appointment of a new superintendent for the County Home to succeed the late H. E. Mowery, but reached no decision. Mr. May believed the appointment would be made at the next meeting. "I believe we will get some place next Monday," he said. "We are getting a little closer on the appointment."

JURORS CALLED TO HEAR CHARGE AGAINST CASE

HILLSBORO, June 27 — Frank Case, 49-year-old tenant farmer, was in custody today awaiting action of a special Highland county grand jury called for Thursday to consider a double slaying in which he is being held.

According to Sheriff Howard Dunseith, Case reportedly confessed he shot and killed Mrs. Jane Richmond, his 45-year-old employer, and Dan Setty, 73, his father-in-law.

Authorities asserted the farm hand admitted firing five shots into the woman, mother of six children, following an altercation over sale of horses.

The accused man was quoted as saying he was sorry for Mrs. Richmond and the children but declared "I should have shot him (Setty) 10 years ago."

A posse of more than 100 captured Case along the Ohio river near Portsmouth yesterday following an all-night search.

Commissioners' has cost him the job as head of the new consolidated Federal Security Agency. Also it may cause him a lot of trouble even to get reappointed as chairman of the Social Security Board. His term expires in August and there is considerable opposition to him inside the Administration and on Capitol Hill.

When the Federal Security Administration was set up under the Reorganization Act, Altmeyer was the No. 1 choice to boss the agency. But so much hostility developed that he was dropped from the list of candidates. Not even that stopped the fire on him. Recently, his inner circle and congressional critics, with powerful labor support, quietly started gunning for his scalp on the Social Security Board.

The odds favor his being reappointed, but he may be subjected to some vigorous buffeting in the Senate before he is confirmed.

BRITISH WIT

One of the best stories on the British royal visit, which still is the subject of much conversation in Washington, is told by Congressman Hamilton Fish—on himself.

Ham is one who believes in the prestige and dignity of the House of Representatives, and while he was invited to the Embassy garden party, he felt grieved that most other members of Congress were not.

So Mr. Fish called up Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, and said:

"I know you'll forgive me for making this suggestion, but I think you did not realize the importance of the House of Representatives when you issued invitations to the garden party."

"Some of the outstanding legislators on Capitol Hill are members of the House. In fact, I am convinced that the next President of the United States is now sitting in the House, and probably any doubt the next Speaker is a member of the present House."

"All right," shot back Lady Lindsay, "send me the names of those three gentlemen and I'll see to it that they get invitations."

FARMERS DESERT HULL

Enemies of Secretary Hull's trade agreement program may take heart: one of his principal allies has threatened to desert him.

All through the fight to negotiate—and retain—trade agreements with foreign countries, Hull has had heavy support from the Farm Bureau Federation. This was important because enemies were accusing Hull of "selling the American farmer down the river."

Farm Bureau, Federation was the one farm outfit that went to bat for the Secretary of State, thanks largely to Wallace's influence, and actively tried to sell the agreements to the U. S. farmer. But now the Farm Bureau has flatly declared it would withdraw this support if the State Department continued to sabotage the cotton export subsidy program.

The issue is a hot one because the Federation has put all its forces into the fight for the cotton subsidy, in the face of heavy mill and market opposition. If it is to be defeated partly by an agency they have fought to support, then there will be no more support from them.

If there were no farm organization supporting the trade agreements program, farmers, who represent the importation of a single Polish ham, could be persuaded to tear it to bits in 1940.

SMOKES

THE country got the "good five-cent cigar" that Vice President Tom Marshall said was our great national need. The head of a cigar company says a five-center today is as good as ten-center brands were in 1929, if not better. The manufacturers saw they had to get down to the level of reduced incomes or lose the five-center trade, in favor of cigarettes.

Cigarettes, though, are doing very well. Their use has increased enormously. People are smoking so much more than they used to that there is a bigger market for every kind of smoke.

This includes the pipe. It is surprising, the way pipes are coming back. And like the other forms of smoking, they have improved. The pipes are better, their devotees say, and pipe tobaccos are better.

So we get around gently to the fact that women are smoking pipes, too. This might be regarded as a throw-back, because many women used to smoke pipes, including George Washington's mother. But there are special pipes for them now, dainty little things made in pastel colors. And dainty tobacco for them, too, no doubt—fragrant, aromatic stuff that most men would disdain in favor of bitter, strong mixtures.

So what? If the reader is looking for a moral, he'll have to figure it out for himself.

MODERN NORSEMEN

THE training ship of the Norwegian Merchant Marine came serenely to port in New York City the other day. It is the Christian Radich, a full-rigged sailing vessel. Although it was a windless afternoon and the ship was propelled by other power, it came up the harbor with all sails up, making a beautiful and thrilling picture.

In addition to the regular crew, the ship carried a group of cadets ranging in age from 16 to 19 years, all of whom are training for careers in Norway's merchant marine service. They had been on the way since May 6. They had paused a few days off Sandy Hook Bar, where a big job of sprucing up and painting up was done in preparation for the grand entrance to New York Harbor.

Crowds lined the seawall and piers to see, to cheer, and to wave at the visitors. Other boats tooted their whistles hospitably. And there were welcoming ceremonies and various plans for the two weeks of the vessel's anticipated stay.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

HINTS ARE audible in Washington of a possible method by which maybe the democratic nations can checkmate Japan's obvious scheme to grab all their trade with the Chinese—and do it without going to actual war with the mikado.

Britain, France and the United States for several generations have as a matter of fact enjoyed many special privileges in China, at China's expense. So has Japan, but now it's evident that the Japanese aim is to crowd all other foreigners out, establishing a Jap monopoly in the special privilege lone on the Asiatic mainland. Nippon's operations around the Chinese port of Amoy didn't particularly impinge upon any of Uncle Sam's claims and Jap militarists have been noticeably polite to Americans at Tientsin. Britain is hardest hit thus far.

BRITISH TOO BUSY

That's understandable. Tokio's reasoning is that the British are too much preoccupied in Europe to do anything very effective in the Orient. It doesn't want, at present, to aggravate Uncle Samuel into coming to John Bull's aid. It's perfectly clear, however, that at the next favorable opportunity the mikado will undertake the assimilation of the tremendously important port of Shanghai, where Americans do have a huge stake. That is, the Jap plan seems to be to Japanize all China to the complete exclusion of the Occident.

Or possibly some temporary concessions will be granted to Germany and Italy, which appear to be friendly to the islanders' program. If the thing goes through, it's good guessing that Tokio ultimately will double cross Hitler and Mussolini also, just as they wiped Germany off from the Asiatic map during the World war.

But right now it's up to J. Bull to do the initial worrying; then France; then Uncle Sam. Not only are those folk in danger of losing all their special privileges; they're in danger of being chased out of continental Asia altogether.

WAR THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE

Is war the only alternative? Aside from the detail that the democratic nations naturally don't want to fight; it would be very inconvenient for them at this juncture, militarily speaking.

Britain and France, as I have remarked, are badly sewed up at home. The task would have to be conducted in Asiatic waters at mightily unhandy long range from this side of the Pacific. It probably would last for years and cost trillions. Meantime Germany and Italy, Uncle Samuel having his hands full in the Far East, would be apt to start something in Europe. It likewise would be an invitation to Russia to hop on Japan overland.

The Japs sense all this. That's why they're so brash. Their military class (I don't refer to the rank-and-file of the Japanese, but the militarists are dominant) don't care a hoot if there's another world war, but they're aware that civilization is deathly afraid of it. Their game is bluff, but sometimes bluffs get "called." Occasionally they HAVE to be.

ANOTHER POSSIBLE WAY

Now, Washington diplomats and strategists I've talked with suggest another possible solution of the dilemma.

China, after all, by no means is yet licked by Japan. The Chinese doubtless WILL BE licked in the last analysis, if the Japanese can keep it up long enough. Far Eastern experts maintain that the Japs can't do it much longer.

Suppose, then (argue democratic spokesmen), that the democratic powers surrender to China (not to Japan) their special, extraterritorial privileges, and agree to treat the Chinese as the United States treats Britain, or as Britain and the United States and France treat one another—just like fellow peoples, on a 50-50 basis.

The theory is that the Chinese thus will be so encouraged (perhaps with a little economic help) as to turn their scale definitely against Japan.

The democracies thus will lose their special privileges in China, but Japan intends to terminate 'em, anyway. And if China wins it will be grateful. It will trade with us 50-50, as above. We shant be barred out, as per Japan.

Which assumes that China wins. With a fair break it will, experts say.

ECCLES URGES PENSION REVISION

WASHINGTON—The problem of how to get business back into a full, healthy swing has been the subject of many quiet conferences at the White House lately, and one of the frankness of these resulted in an inferential bawling-out of Henry Morgenthau.

The man who did the plain-talking was Marriner Eccles, who in addition to running the Federal Reserve Board, is the chief inner circle advocate of heavy spending.

Eccles delivered his lecture while discussing the new self-liquidating program with the President. While he favors this, he does not believe it goes far enough. What is needed, he told Roosevelt, is to open up the pension system so as to pay out some of the huge idle reserves now being piled up through monthly payroll taxes.

This theory directly counters the ideas of Secretary Henry Morgenthau, who attended the conference, and Arthur J. Altmeyer, timid chairman of the Social Security Board. Both insist on a big reserve fund. Eccles made no direct reference to Morgenthau and Altmeyer but he kicked their policy all over the place.

TOO MUCH SAVING

"This system of piling up a vast pension reserve is deflationary," he declared. "It's taking money right out of the pockets of consumers and sticking it away in an idle fund. By the end of this year, $1,700,000,000 will have been collected from consumers in payroll taxes. The system operates as a gigantic saving device at a time when there is a surfeit of savings."

"What should be done is to provide reasonable pensions for old people immediately, regardless of whether they have contributed to the fund. That would not only meet a great social need and popular demand, but it would also be economically sound at this stage in our economic life."

"The present system is decreasing consumption when we have inadequate consumer buying power. That would be all right in a capital-poor country where a curtailment of consumption was necessary in order to divert more resources into the making of plant and equipment. But it has absolutely no economic justification in our capital-rich, consumption-poor economy. We are deflating when we ought to be spending."

The President listened to Eccles without interruption, but when he finished, said: "Maybe you are right, but it's too late to do anything now, Marriner. The social security amendments are on their way through Congress."

"It's never too late to correct an error, Mr. President," Eccles replied stoutly. "The amendments are still being considered by the Senate Finance Committee and a determined effort should be made to revise them."

SYNOPSIS
SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, finds her childhood romance has been blasted with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific, returns and falls in love with Judith. To Ferryville flies
BOB KENNEDY, close friend of Jack's, receiving a broken leg in a crash at the airport.

YESTERDAY: Because his leg is bothering him, Bob agrees to take Lynn's room at the parsonage for the night. Then Lynn finds his car has been stolen.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

MUCH, MUCH later, in bed in her small room, with the wild wind stirring the white ruffled curtains and blowing rain against her sleepless face, Sarah Anne tried to put the pieces of the evening's happenings into some sort of order—to make a jig-saw puzzle which held together.

But all she could remember was Jack's innocent forgetting of Judy's interest in his plight. Then she remembered that time, a day or two before, when the small boys had returned to him with such adoration at the hospital. He was their hero.

He had not meant to be unkind. But he had not owned his interest from his own problem to bring something important to the children. He had not even thought of it. His path was true, his straight, fast. He never deviated from it. It was his road. But if anyone told him he was selfish he would be hurt—

Now Bob . . . that made her think of the other young aviator, whose leg had been injured in the accident and who was tied down to crutches for a little while yet. Bob had taken time out to please those children. Odd that he should be sleeping so near tonight. She wondered where Lynn had gone, if he had found his car.

"Don't worry, Sarah Anne sweet. I'll locate it easily," he had told her at the door as he swung away into the wet night.

But she hadn't heard. And it was her fault. She had left the keys in the car, just like an idiot. She decided to telephone the hotel and ask for Lynn. Maybe she could sleep if she knew she hadn't lost that perfectly glorious car for him.

She slipped into an old rose silk negligee, stepped into matching mules, and went down to the library to telephone.

A sleepy voice answered at the hotel, and in a moment she had the desk.

"May I speak to Mr. Lynn Rhodes?" she asked.

"Nobody here by that name, madame."

"Not yet? But he will be there. When he comes, will you ask him to call?" She stopped. No, that would wake the whole family.

"Only a man and his wife here—Mr. and Mrs. John Adams. Only guests today."

Where had Lynn gone? Had something happened to him? Maybe he had traced the car to another city and put up there for the night. She dialed the police station.

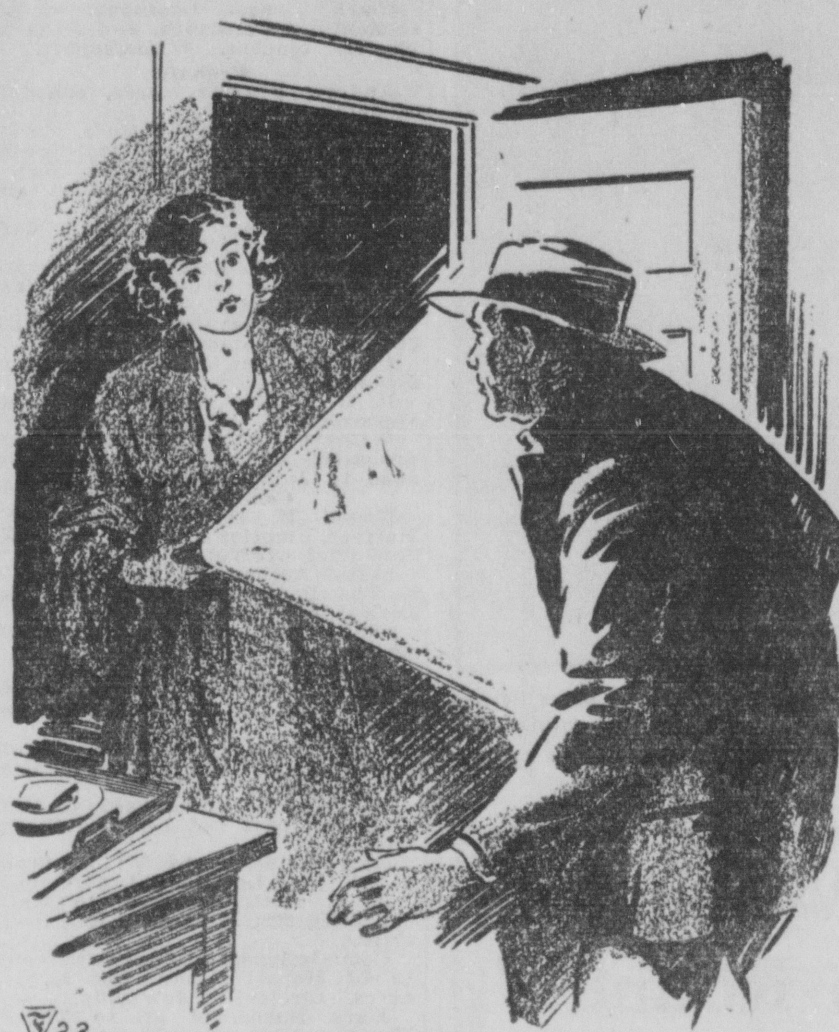

"This is Sarah Anne Melton at the parsonage. Do you know if Mr. Rhodes' car has been found?" She waited while a man went to look up the records. He came back to say sleepily:

"No missing cars reported to-night. You say it was stolen?"

"Yes, it disappeared from our house. I thought you were searching for it." She hung up.

Had something happened to Lynn before he could report the car? She was so tired, tired as though she had come a long, long distance. In a way she had. She had come from a love that began at nine or ten to the beginning of release. Strangely enough, she found the pain growing lighter on this night when every road was a cross-road, every question was doubled. Maybe if she drank some hot milk she could grow sleepy as well as tired. Tomorrow she would put her mind to order.

She snapped on one blue light over the stove, poured some milk in a pan and wondered if maybe Bob Kennedy was awake, too; if he would like some milk. There was a can of chocolate syrup in the refrigerator. She would flavor the milk, whip it to a froth, top it with whipped cream and make some toast.

Robert's special nurse had come from the hospital and been cheerfully, if indignantly, dismissed for the night by the aviator.

"When I have the use of my leg I'll join the Olympics to prove I can run," he said. "Get out, please, like a good Red Cross scout, and come back at eight o'clock in the morning. I'll like you a lot then."

So the nurse had made him comfortable and gone away, shaking her head at his stubbornness. To Sarah Anne, she had said, "Look in on him once or twice, won't you?"

She had once. His even breathing told her he was asleep. Funny that now she KNEW he was awake, that she WANTED him to be awake.

She prepared the tray, turned out the blue light, and then she heard a noise, a noise at a kitchen window. She waited, tray in her hands. The window was going up, slowly but surely. She put down the tray and didn't know it. There was a flashlight in the corner of the cupboard. If she could reach that! She did.

She snapped it on, straight on the face of the man who had stepped into the kitchen.

"You!" she gasped.

It wasn't a strange intruder, bent on murder. It was a fat face with beady eyes and thick lips. It was the face of the man she had seen earlier in the evening when he had questioned her about Lynn Rhodes and his car. She summed up her knowledge of this man. Lynn had called him Punk Edwards, and said he was a rival reporter for a news syndicate. While the two men professed to be affable, they were out to get each other's notes.

Well, what did the man want to-night? Why come this way? Even a reporter about to steal a picture used more sense.

Edwards was too astounded to speak for a moment. But a slim girl in a rose negligee gave him no fear. He began to laugh. "Better have that lock fixed, sister. Too easy to pick. A real burglar might get ideas."

"Ideas about a parsonage? What could he steal?" She still held the flashlight. She should be scared. She wasn't.

"Snap off the light, honey." With a dexterous movement he did it for her.

And still she wasn't afraid. She was thinking merely that she must not let Edwards know that Lynn was gone or the reporter would follow him. But, on the other hand, she mustn't let this intruder disturb Bob. And with the thought of Bob came the memory of his kiss. Odd to stand in the kitchen, with this intruder, and think now of a pair of firm, compelling lips, when she had pushed the memory away all evening.

Edwards spoke quickly. "Listen, honey. This is legitimate business. Rhodes and I can go to town together on it. We need each other. But the darned fool won't see me, so I have to take a chance. Get me?"

The man seized Sarah Anne's wrists in one huge hand, and clasped his other hand over her mouth. "I'm going to tie you up with those tea towels. Want to be left here or come along? Nod if you want to come."

Sarah Anne had a feeling that she had opened the kitchen door and walked into a strange, haphazard dream. She was watching events, distorted, unreal, go by, and she couldn't stop them. She couldn't explain about Lynn's absence now. She could only wish that someone would come before the towels bound her wrists, her ankles, and made a gag for her mouth.

Then the man chuckled. "I'll take you along. You're light. Got a back stairway?"

At the door of the room now occupied by Bob he paused. Even in her discomfort and fright—the belated fear was beginning—Sarah Anne wondered how this man knew the way around the house so expertly. A thought came and grew. He had been here before! Bunk Edwards dropped her at the door of the room, in a small alcove. His flashlight went on. Sarah Anne heard his low voice.

"Robin—Hey, Rhodes!"

Then Bob's voice, amused, drawling, free from any fear, came out of the dark. "Sorry, but Rhodes isn't here tonight. Any message I can take?"

The comfort of that voice flowed around Sarah Anne and protected her. Bob was near, and Bob was safe and steady. She forgot it in the row of invectives that came from the marauder's mouth. Then he pulled himself together.

"Sorry. A friend of his—I wanted to get to him in a hurry."

Edwards came from the room quickly, noiselessly. He ignored Sarah Anne, went down the steps, into the night. She tried to move, but the knots were hurting her. She couldn't call. And her mouth ached from the gag. She had thought that Bob and Jack were in danger. They were! But why had Lynn been sought, too? Maybe she could work her way to Bob's door. It was not fully closed. She flung her body against it at last. The sound was pronounced. She waited for Bob to call. He didn't answer.

But he was there! Why didn't he speak? What had happened?

DIET AND HEALTH

Death Takes No July 4 Holiday

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE TOOK occasion to sound our regular Fourth of July warning last Saturday, particularly pointing out the danger of small children playing with so-called harmless fireworks and, more particularly, playing with them without adult supervision. This latter danger is very real on the few days before and the few days after the Fourth, when "bootleg" celebrations are carried on.

But now that the Fourth is actually here, let us give some practical advice about fireworks injuries, because in spite of all the warnings and in spite of all the good intentions, some celebration is certainly going to be carried on.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Fireworks burns are more painful than other burns because of the chemicals carried into the wound. In treatment of these burns certain acids and oils are generally prescribed by the doctor.

Deep Lacerations

In deep lacerations the doctor is sure to bring up the advisability of using tetanus antitoxin as a preventive of lockjaw. The decision is usually up to the parents.

Certainly in any doubtful case, where there is a possibility of street dirt having contaminated the wound, tetanus antitoxin should be used. It seems a shame that people should hesitate—because of the ancient prejudice against a "serum"—to give their children the benefit of protection against lockjaw, because, rare as the disease is and remote as the chances of infection are, the disease itself is so terrible and the consequences should infection occur, so tragic, that any method of prevention should be eagerly accepted.

The size of the wound has not as much to do with the possibility of tetanus as the nature of the wound. Open wounds are least liable to infection, while punctured or lacerated wounds are most liable. Very trivial wounds, even a pin prick, have been known to develop tetanus at the base.

Trustworthy Preventative

Tetanus antitoxin is a specific and trustworthy preventative. In the World War, before its use became universal after wounds, the incidence of lockjaw among the wounded was shocking. After its routine use, the incidence fell to a fraction of one per cent. In the Civil War, before tetanus antitoxin was developed, the incidence of tetanus was one to 487 wounds. In the World War, when tetanus antitoxin was routinely used, the incidence in the American armies was one to 6,224 wounds.

Tetanus antitoxin is made by immunizing horses and is held in solution in horse serum. It is given under the skin. About a week after injection, in most cases, there appears a serum rash which lasts a day or two and is annoying, but is not dangerous.

eaten cabbage leaf is shown in the accompanying illustration. The looper not only eats cabbage leaves, but peas, beets, celery, lettuce, tomatoes and even the foliage of potatoes.

Both the cabbage worm and cabbage looper can be controlled by an arsenal of lead spray or dust. This spray or dust should only be used on young plants, and never within the last month before harvesting. In many cases, hand picking will prove all that is necessary to control the looper.

Conquering the Cabbage Looper

The name "looper" is given to a pest that afflicts cabbages, and other cabbage-like plants, due to its habit of doubling or looping as it crawls. This looper is the worm of the gray moth so common in the vegetable garden.

Averill's Bat Helping Detroit Team Move Up

NEW YORK, June 27—When Outfielder Earl Averill recently was shunted to the Detroit Tigers by the Cleveland Indians his first observation on the deal was that the Tigers would begin to move up in the American League pennant race, and his powers as a prophet began to ring true today.

Detroit now stands in third place only 2½ games behind the second place Boston Red Sox, while the Indians have slipped to fourth place as a result of an encounter between the Tigers and Indians yesterday in which Averill played a leading role.

Making his first appearance against his former mates, he cracked out three hits, including a double, and drove in two runs to help pile up a 11 to 2 victory for Detroit, Tommy Bridges did the winning hurling scoring his 10th triumph of the campaign.

In a night game at Philadelphia, the New York Yankees ran into the four-hit pitching of Henry Pippin and lost to the Athletics by 3 to 2, Bump Hadley being on the mound for the champions, whose lead was trimmed to 12 games over the Red Sox. The latter turned back the Washington Senators, 3 to 0, on the neat seventh-inning hurling of Lefty Grove.

The Yankee defeat was the first suffered against the A's in nine starts this season, while their inability to run up a score against Pippin was the second such debacle experienced by them against this hurler. They beat him in a previous game, but by 1 to 0.

The three American league contests were the only ones played yesterday, with the entire National league idle as the clubs travelled, the easterners returning to their own sector after a swing through the West.

SEATTLE BACKS HOSTAK TO WIN OVER KRIEGER

SEATTLE, Wash., June 27—Pacific Northwest fans today kept their fingers crossed as they awaited the gong for tonight's championship fight between Solly Krieger, the middleweight titleholder from Brooklyn, and Al Hostak, the ex-champ from Seattle.

The fans were hoping that the weatherman would give them a break and hold off promised showers.

The fans also were hopeful that the medics were correct when they said Hostak's injured hands were again in excellent shape. They continued to lay 2 to 1 odds that Hostak will regain the title he lost to Krieger last year.

There are many benefits to be gained from dancing, according to a noted terpsichore teacher. That's right — for instance, while you are out on the floor some other fellow might be getting the check.

LOUIS, GALENTO FIASCO TO DRAW 40,000 - MAYBE

Promoter Jacobs Expects Success; Outcome Of Bout In Doubt

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, June 27 — Artistically the bout easily could be something less than a breath-taking masterpiece and might even be a downright flop, but financially tomorrow night's engagement between Joe Louis and Tony Galento will be a financial success unless Promoter Mike Jacobs is delirious with optimism.

Earl Averill's powers as prophet begin ringing true as Detroit starts moving up in American league.

America's women tennis aces swing into action at Wimbledon. Yesterday's baseball scores: American league—Philadelphia 3, New York 2 (night); Boston 3, Washington 0; Detroit 11, Cleveland 2.

First half of qualifying round in the National Intercollegiate golf tourney ends with leaders in three-way tie at Des Moines, Ia.

Maurice Strickland, New Zealand heavyweight, ends Johnny Paycheck's victory string at 24 fights with 10-round decision at Des Moines.

Sammy Angott, lightweight contender, hopes for an early crack at title after beating "Cowboy" Scott in ten rounds at Louisville.

A couple of "old timers" in the ring show they've still got punch in their fists in Hollywood, Cal., fights. Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom kayoes Heavyweight Al Ettore in third round, and Jack Roper wins by technical kayo in eighth over Gunnar Barlund.

Pacific Northwest boxing fans keep their fingers crossed for good weather and Al Hostak as the home town boy goes against Sol Krieger tonight in an attempt to regain middleweight crown.

CIRCLEVILLE AND FAYETTE COUNTY GOLFERS TO VIE

Pickaway Country Club golfers and those of the Washington C. H. course will meet Wednesday afternoon on the Circleville fairways. The match will begin about 1 p. m., and Pro Bill Bowman of the local club is hoping that a large number of golfers appears to help make the day a success.

The Fayette county club swings won from the locals by a pretty lopsided score on the Washington course. Bowman believes that the tables will be turned in the Wednesday competition.

BIRDS TO MEET ARMCO BEFORE MOVING TO WEST

COLUMBUS, June 27—The Columbus Red Birds were to go to Middletown today for an exhibition game with the Armco team before heading West once more. The team will resume play in the American association race tomorrow night against the Indians at Indianapolis.

The game tomorrow will give the Ohio team a chance to get even with the Indians for taking the rubber game of its series, which ended yesterday. The Indians won by staging a three-run rally in the eighth inning, making the final score 4 to 2.

In the other two games scheduled, St. Paul beat the circuit-leading Kansas City Blues 4 to 3 and the Louisville Colonels trounced the Toledo Mud Hens 8 to 1.

Only two association games were scheduled for today: Kansas City at St. Paul and Milwaukee at Minneapolis.

Averill's Bat Helping Detroit Team Move Up

NEW YORK, June 27—When Outfielder Earl Averill recently was shunted to the Detroit Tigers by the Cleveland Indians his first observation on the deal was that the Tigers would begin to move up in the American League pennant race, and his powers as a prophet began to ring true today.

Detroit now stands in third place only 2½ games behind the second place Boston Red Sox, while the Indians have slipped to fourth place as a result of an encounter between the Tigers and Indians yesterday in which Averill played a leading role.

Making his first appearance against his former mates, he cracked out three hits, including a double, and drove in two runs to help pile up a 11 to 2 victory for Detroit, Tommy Bridges did the winning hurling scoring his 10th triumph of the campaign.

In a night game at Philadelphia, the New York Yankees ran into the four-hit pitching of Henry Pippin and lost to the Athletics by 3 to 2. Bump Hadley being on the mound for the champions, whose lead was trimmed to 12 games over the Red Sox. The latter turned back the Washington Senators, 3 to 0, on the next seventh hurling of Lefty Grove.

The Yankee defeat was the first suffered against the A's in nine starts this season, while their inability to run up a score against Pippin was the second such debacle experienced by them against this hurler. They beat him in a previous game, but by 1 to 0.

The three American league contests were the only ones played yesterday, with the entire National league idle as the clubs travelled, the easterners returning to their own sector after a swing through the West.

SEATTLE BACKS HOSTAK TO WIN OVER KRIEGER

SEATTLE, Wash., June 27—

Pacific Northwest fans today kept their fingers crossed as they awaited the going for tonight's championship fight between Solly Krieger, the middleweight titleholder from Brooklyn, and Al Hostak, the ex-champ from Seattle.

The fans were hoping that the weatherman would give them a break and hold off promised showers.

The fans also were hopeful that the medics were correct when they said Hostak's injured hands were again in excellent shape. They continued to lay 2 to 1 odds that Hostak will regain the title he lost to Krieger last year.

LOUIS, GALENTO FIASCO TO DRAW 40,000 - MAYBE

Promoter Jacobs Expects Success; Outcome Of Bout In Doubt

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, June 27 — Artistically the bout easily could be something less than a breath-taking masterpiece and might even be a downright flop, but financially tomorrow night's engagement between Joe Louis and Tony Galento will be a financial success unless Promoter Mike Jacobs is delirious with optimism.

Earl Averill's powers as prophet begin ringing true as Detroit starts moving up in American league.

America's women tennis aces swing into action at Wimbledon. Yesterday's baseball scores: American league—Philadelphia 3, New York 2 (night); Boston 3, Washington 0; Detroit 11, Cleveland 2.

A couple of "old timers" in the ring show they've still got punch in their fists in Hollywood, Cal., fights. Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom kayoes Heavyweight Al Ettore in third round, and Jack Roper wins by technical kayo in eighth over Gunnar Barlund.

Pacific Northwest boxing fans keep their fingers crossed for good weather and Al Hostak as the home town boy goes against Sol Krieger tonight in an attempt to regain middleweight crown.

CIRCLEVILLE AND FAYETTE COUNTY GOLFERS TO VIE

Pickaway Country Club golfers and those of the Washington C. H. course will meet Wednesday afternoon on the Circleville fairways. The match will begin about 1 p. m., and Pro Bill Bowman of the local club is hoping that a large number of golfers appears to help make the day a success.

The Fayette county club swings won from the locals by a pretty lopsided score on the Washington course. Bowman believes that the tables will be turned in the Wednesday competition.

BIRDS TO MEET ARMCO BEFORE MOVING TO WEST

COLUMBUS, June 27—The Columbus Red Birds were to go to Middletown today for an exhibition game with the Armco team before heading West once more. The team will resume play in the American association race tomorrow night against the Indians at Indianapolis.

The game tomorrow will give the Ohio team a chance to get even with the Indians for taking the rubber game of its series, which ended yesterday. The Indians won by staging a three-run rally in the eighth inning, making the final score 4 to 2.

In the other two games scheduled, St. Paul beat the circuit-leading Kansas City Blues 4 to 3 and the Louisville Colonels trounced the Toledo Mud Hens 8 to 1.

Only two association games were scheduled for today: Kansas City at St. Paul and Milwaukee at Minneapolis.

Reds To Close Home Stay Against Pirates

CINCINNATI, June 27—The Reds will close their present home stay Wednesday with a night game against Pie Traynor's swash-buckling Pittsburgh Pirates. Before the game a pre-game show of a very unusual nature will take place. It will be the most novel surprise of the season. There will also be fireworks.

The Pirates were to open the series with a single game Tuesday.

Pittsburgh has not appeared at Crosley Field since April 23.

After the night game the Reds will leave for Chicago, stopping off Thursday at Indianapolis for a twilight exhibition tilt with the Indians, the Reds' American Association farm club. The Reds meet the Cubs in Chicago Friday, Saturday, and in a double-header Sunday. The Reds have not as yet appeared in the Windy City, as their first series there was completely washed out.

The Reds will celebrate Independence Day with a double-header at Pittsburgh, and will then return home again to meet their closest rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals Gas House Gang. The Reds and Cards will clasp each other in a ladies' day attraction July 5, and in a night game July 6. This nocturnal affair will be preceded by a track meet in which Bob Deckard, Glenn Cunningham, and Wayne Rideout, three of the greatest track stars in the country, will appear.

KIWANIS VOTE $50 DONATION TO PARK PROJECT

Money To Help Buy Land
In Northend For City

OTHERS PLAN SUPPORT

Rotary Club To Install
William D. Radcliff
As President

The Circleville playground project, sponsored by the Elks lodge, was given a boost Monday evening when the Kiwanis Club voted a gift of $50 to help purchase land for the playground. The donation was voted unanimously after a lengthy discussion concerning several pending projects of the club.

The contribution is the first announced since the Elks voted to sponsor the plan and voted to start the land purchase fund with a $500 donation.

Other civic clubs and fraternal orders are expected to support the project as soon as they conduct their next meetings, the program being well received in Circleville where the need for a public playground has long been recognized. A breakfast is planned in the American Hotel coffee shop Thursday at 7 a. m. at which time the project will be more thoroughly discussed.

An option has been taken by the Elks committee headed by Frank A. Lynch on the Voll property of 13 acres north of Hargus creek and west of Court street for the playground.

Radcliff to Take Rotary Chair

William D. Radcliff, of Williamsport, will become president of the Rotary Club Thursday noon at its meeting in the American Hotel coffee shop. He will succeed Ray Rowland, who has served during the last year.

Other officers to be inducted with Mr. Radcliff are Frank Barnhill, vice president; John Ryan, treasurer, and Charles T. Gilmore, secretary. New directors include George Griffith and the Rev. R. T. Kelsey.

The club will hear reports of the recent Cleveland convention and of the American Legion Boys' state, recently conducted at the state fairgrounds. The club helped to finance the trip of Paul Walters and Tom Harden to the Boys' state. Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Mr. Radcliff are expected to report on the convention.

The incoming president will announce his committees for the next year.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

Circleville and Pickaway county officers learned Monday night that the automobile stolen from Wayne Hall, at Laurelville, last Thursday, was recovered Sunday night in Ironton. Two youths who escaped from the Boys' Industrial school in Lancaster, Wednesday night, confessed taking the car. The boys are in custody at Ironton.

Uniting two of the screen's most popular stars, "Love Affair" co-stars Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer, at the Grand theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both favorites are ideally cast in their respective roles, which, in fact, were written to fit their personalities and talents. Miss Dunne plays a sophisticated woman of the world; Boyer is seen as a famous Continental heartbreaker.

Ordinarily impervious to a sincere heart-and-soul romance, the mundane luminaries are seriously smitten. Their hopeless fight against their new-found engulfing love is complicated by prior betrothals and an accident.

Following her recent "Joy of Living," Miss Dunne returned to RKO Radio Pictures for her current vehicle—and studio where she first soared to fame in "Cimarron." Some of the star's more recent film hits are "The Awful Truth," "High, Wide and Handsome," and "Theodora Goes Wild."

Boyer scored an outstanding hit in France in pictures and on the stage before coming to this country where he has achieved recognition in such films as "Algiers," "Conquest," "Tovarich" and "History Is Made at Night."

HAYWARD, Wis., June 27—A reward of $1,000 was posted today for the capture and conviction of Ray Olson as the desperado killer of two sheriff's deputies continued almost unbelievably to elude several hundred possemen who have been tracking him through Wisconsin's north woods for ten days.

The fugitive, an expert marksman and woodsman who is believed to be subsisting on raw deer meat, has been named by Sheriff George Seehueter, directing the search, as the possible kidnapslayer of 10-year-old Charles Mattson in Tacoma, Wash., in 1936.

ENFORCEMENT QUESTION

Ordinance Being Used For Regulation In Numerous
Ohio Centers

The enforcement of a milk code, if one is passed, is one of the problems confronting city council. Councilmen and a group of milk dealers met Monday night to discuss proposed regulations of the sale of milk. So far, councilmen have reached no definite decision on the regulations to be established.

M. J. Dotter, of Columbus, chief milk sanitarian of the state, explained the enforcement of an ordinance passed should be considered. He explained that the inspection of milk in Circleville would not be a full time position for a sanitarian, but it was possible some arrangements might be worked out with the county for the sanitarian to do other health work.

Mr. Dotter had offered an ordinance to council last December providing regulations on the care and handling of milk. This ordinance, he explained, has been used successfully in many Ohio cities and communities.

Representatives of the milk dealers present included W. W. Robinson of the Circle City Dairy; Clyde Leist and Glen Skinner of the Pickaway Dairy association, and Loring Valentine of the Blue Ribbon Dairy.

Councilman John Neuding was chairman of the meeting. Others present included councilmen Frank Lynch, Julius Helwage, Ben Gordon and Clarence Helvering and L. E. Miller, service director and city health commissioner.

SCIOTO BOARD EMPLOYES TEACHER FOR NEXT TERM

The Scioto township board of education employed Miss Winona Stonerock, of Williamsport, as fifth grade teacher, Monday night, to succeed Miss Helen Williams, resigned. The vacancy was the only one existing on the Scioto teaching staff. Miss Stonerock has taught in Williamsport the last two years.

The board decided to have private individuals furnish buses for transportation of children. Bids had been received for transportation of the pupils in privately owned buses and from dealers for furnishing bus equipment to the board. In the past the buses were privately owned.

The Muhlenberg township board of education met Monday night to consider routine business. To date the board has not employed teachers for the next term. The county board of education recently decided that the Muhlenberg high school pupils attend Monroe school and the grade school at Darbyville be continued.

Judge Meeker Terwilliger. Mr. Heffner was granted a divorce. Mrs. Heffner's maiden name of Bechtol was restored.

NEW BENNY SERIES

Benny Goodman's blazing hot swing band will open a new "Caravan" series over WLW from NBC July 8, to be broadcast Saturdays at 9 p. m.
The gay show's debut will mark the addition of five new musicians and two new arrangers to the talent roster and the introduction of Bert Parks, 24-year-old announcer, singer and comedian as master of ceremonies.

Benny Goodman not only is hailed as an outstanding exponent of swing music, but is credited with the very creation of "swing" music as a descriptive phrase. After an inauspicious opening soon after organizing his band in New York five years ago, Goodman quietly toured across the country. On opening at the Palomar in Los Angeles, he described his organization as a "swing" band, solely to get a new name. The trick phrase took on, and so did the band. From then on Benny Goodman has risen in prominence until his name today is recognized from coast to coast as a symbol of the latest, and hottest in swing.

HARRY SALTER SIGNED

Harry Salter and his band are the latest recruits to join Mr. District Attorney, new evening script show which replaces Bob Hope tonight at 9.

Long known as one of radio's most versatile leaders in the field of musical effects, Salter will direct the background music and cue the show.

A member of radio's "Ten Year Club" recently organized by Lanny Ross, Salter made his microphone debut a decade ago in Montreal. After playing at various hotels throughout the country, he moved to New York and became the first musical director for the CBS owned station in Manhattan.

RADIO BRIEFS

Benny Goodman will play a swing concert on the Boston Commons Friday, June 25, at 2 p. m. Believed to be the first free concert ever swung on the Commons, the concert is being sponsored by Boston's own Mayor Tobin. Twenty thousand Boston jitterbugs are expected.

SNITE, JR., BACK HOME; TO VISIT NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK, June 27—Fred W. Snite, Jr., 28, the courageous Chicago victim of infantile paralysis whose smile remains undimmed despite the three years he has been encased in an iron lung, looked forward today to the possibility of another great adventure—a visit to the New York World's Fair.

If conditions are advantageous, Snite will visit the exposition in his trailer which carries the iron lung before leaving for his home in Chicago Friday, his father said. Snite returned aboard the Normandie yesterday, reported that his visit to the Shrine of Miracles at Lourdes, France, had brought him tremendous spiritual solace.

$100 FINE ASSESSED

A fine of $100 and costs was assessed J. C. Rader, 55, Circleville, in Mayor Harold H. Brown's court, at Chillicothe, Monday afternoon, on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Rader was arrested at 2:08 a. m. Monday by the state highway patrol on Route 23, three miles south of Chillicothe.

The Ladies Aid of the United Brethren church will hold their 35th anniversary celebration of the founding of the Aid at the church on Wednesday evening, June 28, beginning at 8:30. The young people of the church will give a program. After these exercises lunch will be served in the church basement. The public is invited.

Bob Walden, our marshal-street commissioner, may be found now at least a part of the time riding the new power, rubber-tired mower trimming down the weeds in the alleys and about the ten-acre park. Told us yesterday that the machine works fine and thinks he has mown at least 25 acres with it since in use.

Elwood Morrison, manager of the local Cooper Gas station, won first place in a "bumper to bumper" auto contest. There were 19 contestants in competition in what was named the Columbus district and placing first was no mean honor and carried with it a substantial cash prize.

Manager Amos Hollenback's newly organized Ashville ball team in a game Sunday with the Jackson township nine came through first best in a score of 6 to 4. The date of the next game has not been named.

Don Campbell and family had for Sunday evening dinner guests Stanley and Mrs. Ward of Columbus. Mrs. Ward is the daughter of Prince and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Campbell, the daughter of Al and Mrs. Flowers and as wee tots were neighbors and playmates and in ages the same except two weeks and but once in 27 years have these ladies failed to celebrate their birthdays together.

William Haughn of Commercial Point territory is credited with bringing the first load of new wheat to the Ashville market, the Scioto Grain Co., receiving the same. Ray Heffner and Glenn Hay were among the others to bring new wheat to the elevators. In all several hundred bushels were received. Sixty-four cents per bushel was the price paid for number two grade. Moisture content reported only slightly off standard grade.

Several workers of the construction force of the Railway Light company, Columbus, were here erecting two new line poles on Main street and placing two additional transformers.

The venerable Fred Palm, one of the well known personages of Harrison township, in falling health and confined to his bed for several weeks, is reported improved and able to sit up part time.

KIWANIANS VOTE $50 DONATION TO PARK PROJECT

Money To Help Buy Land In Northend For City Playground

OTHERS PLAN SUPPORT

Rotary Club To Install William D. Radcliff As President

The Circleville playground project, sponsored by the Elks lodge, was given a boost Monday evening when the Kiwanis Club voted a gift of $50 to help purchase land for the playground. The donation was voted unanimously after a lengthy discussion concerning several pending projects of the club.

The contribution is the first announced since the Elks voted to sponsor the plan and voted to start the land purchase fund with a $500 donation.

Other civic clubs and fraternal orders are expected to support the project as soon as they conduct their next meetings, the program being well received in Circleville where the need for a public playground has long been recognized.

A breakfast is planned in the American Hotel coffee shop Thursday at 7 a. m. at which time the project will be more thoroughly discussed.

An option has been taken by the Elks committee headed by Frank A. Lynch on the Voll property of 13 acres north of Hargus creek and west of Court street for the playground.

Radcliff to Take Rotary Chair

William D. Radcliff, of Williamsport, will become president of the Rotary Club Thursday noon at its meeting in the American Hotel coffee shop. He will succeed Ray Rowland, who has served during the last year.

Other officers to be inducted with Mr. Radcliff are Frank Barnhill, vice president; John Ryan, treasurer, and Charles T. Gilmore, secretary. New directors include George Griffith and the Rev. R. T. Kelsey.

The club will hear reports of the recent Cleveland convention and of the American Legion Boys' state, recently conducted at the state fairgrounds. The club helped to finance the trip of Paul Walters and Tom Harden to the Boys' state. Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Mr. Radcliff are expected to report on the convention.

The incoming president will announce his committees for the next year.

STOLEN CAR FOUND

Circleville and Pickaway county officers learned Monday night that the automobile stolen from Wayne Hall, at Laurelville, last Thursday, was recovered Sunday night in Ironton. Two youths who escaped from the Boys' Industrial school in Lancaster, Wednesday night, confessed taking the car. The boys are in custody at Ironton.

Uniting two of the screen's most popular stars, "Love Affair" co-stars Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer, at the Grand theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both favorites are ideally cast in their respective roles, which, in fact, were written to fit their personalities and talents. Miss Dunne plays a sophisticated woman of the world; Boyer is seen as a famous Continental heartbreaker.

Ordinarily impervious to a sincere heart-and-soul romance, the mundane luminaries are seriously smitten. Their hopeless fight against their new-found engulfing love is complicated by prior betrothals and an accident.

Following her recent "Joy of Living," Miss Dunne returned to RKO Radio Pictures for her current vehicle—and studio where she first soared to fame in "Cimarron." Some of the star's more recent film hits are "The Awful Truth," "High, Wide and Handsome" and "Theodora Goes Wild."

Boyer scored an outstanding hit in France in pictures and on the stage before coming to this country where he has achieved recognition in such films as "Algiers," "Conquest," "Tovarich" and "History Is Made at Night."

HOSTAK THUMPS KRIEGER TO WIN BACK HIS TITLE

SEATTLE, Wash., June 28 — They say you can't come back. But 23-year-old Al Hostak of Seattle fooled 'em.

By virtue of his terrific right hand, Hostak today was again the world's middleweight champion—that is everywhere except New York and California where Fred Apostoli is recognized as the titleholder.

Hostak, who dropped his title to Solly Krieger of Brooklyn seven months ago, regained his crown last night by scoring a smashing four-round technical klayo over the same Krieger, as 22,000 loyal Pacific northwest fans roared their approval.

Jimmy Braddock, the ex-heavyweight champion, stopped the scheduled 15-round bout 46 seconds after the start of the fourth round and after Hostak had spilled the Brooklyn Hebrew to the canvas four times in rapid succession.

Stung by a powerful right, Krieger fell for a nine count in the third. The bell saved Krieger at the count of seven when he hit the canvas again in the same round. Again using his right, Hostak floored Krieger for a nine count at the start of the fourth. Krieger got up and went down almost immediately as he caught another sharp right.

Krieger blamed his defeat on his excessive poundage.

SHORT DOES WELL

Harry Short, of Columbus, formerly of Circleville, won a $400 purse Tuesday in a handicap race at the grand circuit races in Toledo, driving Mac O'Guy. Short took second place with Duke of York in a $1,750 stake for three-year-old pacers.

Tales In Tidbits

By William Ritt

There's a saying around the American league circuit that once the Yankees fire, trade or sell a player he is never taken back into the fold . . . There's lots of truth in that . . . But Pitcher Jimmy De Shong has broken the tradition . . . He rejoined the Men of McCarthy after a sojourn with the Senators.

The Yankees are planning Lou Gehrig day . . . Only one man on the team is against the idea. You guessed it—he's Lou Gehrig. Lou thinks the Yanks have been swell to him—and they have—throughout his career and he can't see why they should feel obligated to honor him further.

Nice guy, Lou.
The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce is already beginning to worry about that first week in October . . . The A. F. of L. convenes there then and has already requested 700 rooms in downtown hostilities . . . And if the Reds win the National league pennant—what about accommodations for the world series crowds?

Harvard is going for an economy wave in sports . . . All junior varsity teams save two will be abolished . . . They are the football and rowing j. v.'s . . . Tough on the kids who just miss making the big team.

Life-Long Rivals?

Tuck Stainback and Melo Almada have been rivals ever since they began their high school baseball careers back in Los Angeles. . . . They played on rival ball teams then . . . Now they are rivals for the center-field job with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Talk about sturdy hurlers—how do you like Pitcher Bucky Walters as a nomination for the 1939 big league Iron Man of the month? . . . In his first 12 starts of the season the big Red moundsman has pitched at least nine innings in each.

Bill Klem, the dean of all big league umpires, must not think his job a permanent one . . . They say he still carries around his steel workers' union card . . . Maybe Bill is right—you never can tell.

If the Yanks are going to flop they might go into their slide this week . . . The New Yorkers are engaged in playing seven double-headers in a stretch of 13 playing days . . . That's a tough strain on any pitching staff.

Slapsie Maxie Rides

Fight fans in the east may be surprised to learn that old Slapsie Rosenbloom is still battling—on the coast . . . His most recent was Al Ettore.

Perhaps the reason the Cincinnati Reds have been riding alone on the top of the National league list is that the Ohioans nearly always manage to get some runs in a ball game . . . They've been shut out but five times this season.

Incidentally the Cincinnati fans are hoping it will be the Giants who will be the second place team this year . . . The Reds and Giants have always been bitter rivals since 1919, when the Reds nosed out the McGrawmen . . . This year, they hope, their team all will stand between the New Yorkers and the flag.

National league photographers, taking movies for the circuit's booster baseball films, say that Forbes field, Pittsburgh, is the best part in the league for camera work . . . That's why most of the N. L. movie footage will be shot there.

SOFTBALL LOOP RESUMES PLAY FRIDAY EVENING

The Circleville recreation ball league will swing back into action Friday evening on the northfield field, scene of the proposed public playground. The field has been dragged and President Byron Eby reports it in good condition for play.

The league has been inactive because of flood waters on the electric company lot, W. Mound street.

Eby said that Purina Feeds and Monarchs would have the honor of playing the first game on the new lot. Monday evening will pit Cooper Oils vs. Wallace-Glitt's; there will be no game Tuesday because of the holiday; Wednesday, it will be Blue Ribbon Dairy vs. Eshelman Feeds; Thursday, Purina Feeds vs. Wallace-Glitt; Friday, Contractors vs. Monarch A. DODGERS IN TIE WITH BEES AFTER 23-FRAME TILT

NEW YORK, June 28 — The Dodgers and Bees today share the distinction of having played the longest and second longest games in the history of the major leagues.

On May 1, 1920, the Bees (then the Braves) and the Dodgers started to play a doubleheader but they never got around to the second game for the first one went 26 innings to a 1-1 draw. Joe Oeschger and Leon Cadore were the route for their respective teams.

Yesterday the Bees and the Dodgers went 23 innings before darkness halted the proceedings with the teams still deadlocked at 2-2. Wyatt pitched 16 great innings for the Dodgers before giving way to a pinch-hitter and Hutchinson, Pressnell and Casey finished for him in grand style.

Fette started for the Bees and was succeeded by Lanning, Frankhouse and Shoffner, all of whom were good.

The Bees put over two runs in the second and then called it a day. They made a threatening gesture in the 13th when they filled the bases on a hit and two errors but Wyatt arose to the occasion and pulled out of the jam without damage. He made a great bid to win his eighth straight victory and it was no fault of his that he didn't succeed.

The Dodgers put over a run in the third and tied it in the eighth and then muffed several later opportunities to score.

Boisterous "No" Answers

Query: "Can Galento Defeat Louis?"

By James L. Kilgallen

NEW YORK, June 28—This will break the city editor's heart. But facts are facts—and the truth is even the bartenders of fistfists think that Bartender Tony Galento, in the same ring with Joe Louis tonight, is a bum.

Well, not all of them. We gabbed over to the bar rooms in the Madison Square garden area today at the city editor's suggestion to see if the idea would stand up that members of Tony's own profession thought he had a chance. The answer, with one or two exceptions, was a boisterous "no."

Wiping the mahogany at Jack Dempsey's Broadway bar, one, Jimmy Lawson said:

"I never saw a fighter with Galento's girth around the tummy who was of championship stuff. He's a grand guy but he ought to be a wrestler. Why, he's as wide open as a Reno saloon. If the fight's on the level it's a cinch for Louis in about two rounds. The odds should be about 10 to 1."
